

25th July 2019

AI(artificial intelligence) technology and Culture hall

I think it is less than 20 years after the technology of the Internet has changed the world, but now AI technology is drawing attention.

The impact that this AI will have over the next 10 years is huge, and various speculations are made by experts on the work that is lost to AI.

What kind of change will happen to our work when social change by Ai occurs?

Can we leave the human reception desk as an interface?

I think that performing arts have a large weight on human sensitivity.

I think that it is difficult to change technical aspects such as lighting and sound not to the progress of equipment but to AI in the essential sense.

